BOB INGERSOLL.

WHAT HE THINKS OF THE DOCTRINE OF ETERNAL PUNISHMENT.

Measuring a Man's Intellect by his Religion--Peopling the Stage About Him With Imaginary Dummies--A Plea for Liberty for Man, Woman, and Child.

From the N. Y. Sun, March 30.

"It may be, after all, I'll get damned for my smartness," said Robert Ingersoll, before an applauding throng in the Brooklyn Academy of Music last night, "but I'll take my chances." Mr. Ingersoll's theme was "Liberty for Man, Woman, and Child." The lecture was under the auspices of the Young Men's Republican Club, the lecturer to have half of the net receipts. A score of tall young men in swallow-tail coats filed upon the stage, and last of all, like an opera tenor rushing through the chorus, came the lecturer, who swiftly strode to the footlights, and, without any ceremony, began:

"In my judgment, after all, it is a question of intellectual development."

Mr. Ingersoll has a round head and a smooth, fat face. His hair is gray and thin on top, and his eyes are dark and bright. They seem almost buried in his round cheeks when he laughs. No public orator gesticulates so much with the topmost part of the body. Ingersoll, with a stiff neck, might be worth only $100 a night. Now he refuses offers at $600. He tips his forehead this or that way, and has a most effective nod. Speaking in short epigrammatic sentences, he punctuates what he says with a nod. He throws in an exclamation point with a nod. "Honor bright!" is a favorite reiteration. "It won't do!" is another which he emphasizes with a shake of the head. He is more theatrical than Beecher or Talmage. He peoples the platform with imaginary dummies, and then flails them to the delight of the audience. By constant reference to these he keeps them before his audience. Last night he had a rude dugout in which floated a native savage—one of our ancestors—with teeth two inches in length, with a spoonful of brains in the back of his head." This, to start with, he seemed to place at a certain spot on the stage, and when he went over that way the audience instinctively recalled his description, and was prepared to hear something about the dugout.

Mr. Ingersoll's voice is soft and melodious. His manner and movements upon the stage, with his wonderful nod, are the elements of his success as a popular orator.

"I was once in the company of some Baptist ministers," said Ingersoll. "I don't know how I ever got there, and they asked my opinion as to baptism. I said that with soap I regarded it as an excellent institution. If you tell me what a man's religion is I'll tell you what is the high-water mark of his intellect—just how many he carries to the pound. When a man thinks that he has found it all out, he is orthodox. The man in the dugout is orthodox. Heresy is a cradle; orthodoxy is a coffin. Heresy is a banner; orthodoxy is a shroud. Heresy gives a new idea a welcome and a warm place by the fireside of its heart. Orthodoxy regards the new idea as a tramp, and keeps bull dogs in front of the house to frighten off every new idea that comes along."

Referring to the lowest form of skull that had ever been found, he said that it was probably found in Delaware.

"There has not been a patentable improvement on the Devil for six thousand years," said the lecturer. "I'll tell you what causes bronchitis among ministers. If you talk solemnly when you dont feel it, that makes bronchitis. Did you ever hear that an auctioneer had it. I call it parsonitis. (Laughter.) This is my doctrine: Give every other human being every right you claim for yourself. Keep your mind open to the influences of nature. Receive new thoughts with hospitality. The religionist of to-day wants the ship of his soul to lie at the wharf of orthodoxy and rot in the sun. He delights to hear the sails of old opinions flap against the masts of old creeds. He loves to see the joints and the sides open and gape in the sun, and it is a kind of bliss for him to repeat, 'Do not disturb my opinions.' As far as I am concerned, I wish to be out on the high seas. I wish to take my chances with the wind and wave and star. And I had rather go down in the glory and grandeur of the storm, than to rot in any orthodox harbor whatever.

After all, we are improving from age to age. The most orthodox people in the country two hundred years ago would have been burned for the crime of heresy. The ministers who denounce me for expressing my thought would have been in the Inquisition themselves. Our fathers worshipped the golden calf. The worst you can say of an American now is that he worships the gold of the calf. Even the calf is beginning to see this distinction. It no longer satisfies the ambition.

Where did that doctrine of eternal punishment come from? It came from that low and beastly skull of that wretch in the dug-out. Where did he get it? It was a souvenir from the animals. The doctrine of eternal punishment was born in the glittering eyes of snakes that hung in fearful coils, watching for their prey. It was born of the howl and bark and growl of wild beasts. It was born of the grin of hyenas, and of the depraved chatter of the unclean hyenas. I despise it with every drop of my blood. Tell me there is a God in the serene heavens that will damn his children for the expression of an honest belief. Tell me that the dimpled darling rocking in its cradle is to be kindling wood for a fire in hell. If there is a God that is sending people into this world to damn them forever, I would rather go to hell than to go to heaven and keep the society of an infamous tyrant.

When the great ship containing the hopes and aspirants of the world; when the great ship freighted with mankind goes down in the night of death, chaos and disaster, I am willing to go down with the ship, with those who love me, and with those whom I have loved, and I will not be guilty of the ineffable meanness of sneaking ashore in some orthodox canoe."

Pleading for liberty for the child, Mr. Ingersoll said, "The laugh of a child will make the holiest day more sacred still. Strike with hand on fire, Oh, weird musician, thy harp strung with Apollo's golden hair; fill the vast cathedral aisles with symphonies sweet and dim, deft toucher of the organ keys; blow, bugler, blow, until thy silvery notes do touch and kiss the moonlit waves, and charm the lovers wandering mid vine-clad hills. But know, your sweetest strains are discords all, compared with childhood's happy laugh—the laugh that fills the eyes with light and every heart with joy. Oh! rippling river of laughter, thou art the boundry line between the beasts and men, and every wayward wave of thine doth drown some fretful fiend of care. Oh Laughter, rose-lipped daughter of Joy, there are dimples enough in thy cheeks to catch and hold and glorify all the tears of grief."

THE CASE OF THE ORPHANS.

The facts which have been brought to light relative to the brutal treatment of the pupils in the Orphans' Home at Carson, call for the immediate removal of Mr. Mills as manager of that institution.

If one-half the testimony given is true, he deserves a place in the penitentiary.

Although Mills is mainly responsible for the outrages committed, the teachers under him are also culpable. Teachers who have no more decency than to spank ten-year-old girls before a mixed class are a disgrace to their calling.

The Orphans' Home seems to need a general clearing out, and the sooner that is done the better.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Soldene Opera Troupe is at Sacramento, and the Bee, in noticing the first appearance of the company, makes some slight comments on the singing and acting, and then launches out in to the following enthusiastic description of the "Duggan kick:" "Miss Maggie Duggan danced 'La Friccassee,' advertised by the management as 'a wildly characteristic dance,' and it was wildly characteristic—of legs. Imagine a tall, lithe, graceful, handsome woman, dressed in what looks like a night gown, who sways and dances to the music and suddenly gives a leap—with one leg resting at six o'clock and the other pointing to high noon and a little beyond—while a bewildering display of anatomy flashes for a moment before the eyes of the audience, and the reader can form some idea of this part of the performance. That the people fully appreciated the saltatorial feats was fully demonstrated by the wild cheers with which the gallery received them." The Bee evidently sympathizes with that love of nature "bare and rosy" which the people of Sacramento can always be relied upon to exhibit.

"Gath" writes from Washington: "Everybody in Washington looks to Garfield's inauguration with delight, as being more gorgeous and jovial than Hayes'. At Hayes' last reception there was but one woman with bare arms and back, and if she had been as naked as an egg she could not have looker queerer. There was a time when the glowing shoulders moving down the east room made it look like the pumiced deck of a ship, and men were giving way in marriage in regiments, because to look was to be lost. Now they go buttoned to the throat, and even pull the hair down over their foreheads, lest they might exceed the bounds of modesty. Nevertheless, the population increases, as by a sort of divine arithmetic, and there are people bold enough to say that if Mrs. Hayes did not button her Puritan gown so close up on her milk-white throat she would be perfectly magnificent. We are weeping for undress receptions."

Coast journalists are publishing with regret and shame the story of a woman who tried to jump off an Oakland ferry boat because she had been led astray by a San Francisco reporter. The hardened reprobate of the Exchange, however, writes without a blush: "This has cast a gloom over the fraternity, and all the good-looking men in the profession are solemnly asserting that they are guiltless—yes, pure as the beautiful snow! But what puzzles us is how a reporter at the present rate of salaries could afford to lead any one astray—that is, if the business is as expensive as it used to be."

A 151-pound specimen of silver ore from the Silver King mine, of Arizona, is on exhibition in San Francisco. It is worth $1,000, and was blasted out on the 510 level. Accompanying this valuable specimen came one weighing 54 pounds, a solid mass of native silver and crystal quartz. The quartz was held together by the net-work of silver wires and strands and cords, which ran all through it.

Three Men Buried in Malt.

Last Sunday, according to the Republican, three men narrowly escaped death at the Boca Brewery. It appears that the floor of the malt room was beginning to give way, and the men were engaged in putting in timbers to strengthen the same. While thus engaged, the floor fell through and buried them in the debris. There were thirty tons of malt on the floor at the time, and it took a good while to shovel the same away sufficiently to release the prisoners. Strange to say, none of them were seriously hurt, each one receiving only a few scratches.

A machine has been invented which can make 100,000 cigarettes a day. The consumption of cigarettes in 1880 amounted to 408,000,000, and it is estimated that 1,000,000,000 will be required to supply the demand for 1881.

Not the least important feature in Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, is the Comfort, Buoyancy, and Vigor which is inspired by its use, as the patient recovers from sickness. No other preparation known contains the same potent and direct effect on the nervous system.

POOR ORPHANS.

THEIR SHAMEFUL TREATMENT IN THE SO-CALLED "HOME."

Flogging With the Rawhide for Trifling Offences---Girls Beaten Black and Blue---Kicks and Cuffs All Round---Welts and Blood-Blisters on a Girl's Back.

The escape of young Fred Gray from the Orphans' Home at Carson, and the exhibition of his welts and bruises to the newspaper reporters, haave raised a storm about the ears of Mills, the Principal of the institution, which is not likely to subside until he is removed. The late official investigation of the management of the home brought disgraceful facts to light. It was given in testimony that the teachers were in the habit of spanking the girl pupils in the most indecent manner before a mixed class of girls and boys, as a favorite method of punishment. In addition to the testimony laid before the Trustees, the Carson Appeal has obtained the following statements from former employes of the Home:

MRS. QUINN'S STATEMENT.

"I was employed at the Home as a laundry woman, and I wish to tell how the boy Wise, whose real name is Wirtz, was treated. He was flogged with a rawhide by both Mr. and Mrs. Mills. They locked him up in a room, nailed down the windows and transom, and kept him a prisoner from Sunday morning until Friday night. I did not see the whipping, but Mrs. Mills came out of the room very much excited and said: 'You bet, I gave it to him.' The boy was half-witted, and was in the habit of drumming with his fingers and beating time while he hummed airs to himself. He was beating time on his desk when Mrs. Mills rushed down to whip him. I believe that he was so frightened that he feared he was about to be badly beaten, and struck out in self-defence. He hit Mrs. Mills in the eye. Mr. Mills has stated that I bribed the boy with a half dollar to hit his wife. He must know very well that I gave Beals the money to give to Wirtz several days after the whipping. I heard that he was going to be sent away, and sent him fifty cents, that he might get something to eat. Mrs. Blakely and young Beals know when I gave the money, and will vouch for what I say. The boy told me that he had been fed on bread and water and that the water was so bad it made him sick to drink it.

THE WHIPPING OF CLARA KINNEY.

A girl twelve years old, named Clara Kinney, was whipped by Mrs. Mills for leaving some dust on the door-sill after her sweeping. I examined her legs, and they were covered with welts and blood-blisters. The child said that in struggling to get away she fell to the floor, and Mrs. Mills kicked her. She was a sickly girl, with sore eyes and asthma, and unable to stand bad treatment.

MORE BLOOD-BLISTERS.

Amelia Brown, for playing in water, was flogged with a rawhide until her body showed black marks and blood-blisters. She was unable that day to appear in the school room.

Louise Moore had her mouth slapped for whispering in school; her lips were swollen. One day a girl came to me with her arm very sore from vaccination and wanted me to put a rag on it. I bound it up with a cloth, and afterwards Mrs. Mills asked her where she got the cloth. When she told her, Mrs. Mills snatched the cloth off, taking the scab with it. Next day I was scolded for interfering with the children. Alice Beals was whipped with a stave that had a nail in it, and showed me the hole the nail had made in her leg.

GENERAL TREATMENT.

I have seen Mills take boys into the workshop and whip them; they would come out lame. Never knew Mills to whip a girl; there were plenty of others to do that. In the winter the children were obliged to get up at half-past six to breakfast. The boys had no place to dry their boots, and in the morning they would be frozen stiff. When they could not get their boots on they would be late for breakfast and have to go without. I have seen the door slammed-in their faces. They then had to go until lunch, and sometimes, for doing something else, they would have their lunch taken away, too, so they had nothing until supper time. I have seen Mills kick the boys when they could not pull on wet or frozen boots. They were locked in closets, put on bread and water, and whipped all the while. Nearly every day, and sometimes several times a day, whipping was going on.

Young Beals was called 'Webb's pimp' by the Mills family. I left the Home of my own account."

MRS. HOLBROOK'S STORY.

"I was the cook at the Home, and was discharged by Mrs. Mills. One day she called me in her room and said:

'Did you know that a Committee was to visit the Home from the Legislature?'

I told her yes, and she said that she did not know it and that I had been unfaithful to her interests not to tell her. She was very angry, and got another cook. The children were flogged continually, except when the Legislature was in session, and then they let up. I have seen Mills kick the boys, and heard the Mills' call Beals 'Webb's pimp.' I never heard Mrs. Mills speak a kind word to any child in the Home. I saw the black welts on Clara Kinney's body. The children were whipped with rawhides and rulers. I did not see Wirtz when he was whipped, but know that he was locked up, and that Mrs. Quinn gave him fifty cents to use when he went away. After the boy was whipped the Mills' came out of the room and told how they had been beating him. The trouble began by his drumming on his desk. Soon after I went into Mrs. Quinn's room and found her crying. She said she was crying because Wirtz had been flogged and locked up. She thought it hard on a half-witted boy to be treated that way. I saw black welts on the body of a child named Mordant. The welts and blisters were from the neck to the waist. It was a dreadful sight. Her guardian, a Sheriff from White Pine county, came and took her away. A girl named Kinney was also terribly beaten. She was about twelve years old, and sickly.

ORGANIZING A BREAK.

At one time fifteen or sixteen of the larger boys got up a plan to run away. They came to Mrs. Quinn and myself, and asked us to help them. We told them not to do it, as they would starve outside. It was winter and snow was on the ground. They said they would rather be drowned in the Carson river than stay there. We talked a good deal with them and dissuaded them. They had an idea that if they could get out and tell how they were treated, somebody would take pity on them and care for them. I saw a girl whose lips were swollen from having her mouth slapped. The rawhide was used continually, the children badly treated, and ruled through fear. No guardian would send a child there if they knew half the wrongs they suffered."

ELIZABETH WILSON'S STATEMENT.

Mrs. Wilson, who is confined to the hospital, sent word to the Appeal office that she would like to see a reporter. To one who called she made the following statement:

"I was at the Home a month and a half, in the laundry. I left because it made me sick to see the cruelties practiced on the children. A girl twelve years old, named Vivian Mordant, was the most whipped of any that I saw. She was taking dirty clothes out of Mrs. Mills' room and dropped a towel. She was called back and whipped with a rawhide. After this she came to me, and I stripped her from the waist up to examine her. Her flesh was laced with cuts, the skin was cut, and out of the welts came a red water—not blood, but such as comes from blisters. I went right to Mr. Mills and told him about it. He said it was none of my business. I thought that Mr. Crockett could stop such things, and I went to him. He said he did not want to hear any of my stories. I said: 'Mr. Crockett, you ought to know these things, as you are one of the Commissioners.' He said: 'I do know it, and it makes me sick." There was a clerk behind the desk who can corroborate what passed between us. Soon afterwards Sheriff Raum, of White Pine county, came here. He was the girl's guardian. He asked me about the whipping, and I said, examine the child and see for yourself. He did so, and took her away to Bishop Whitaker's School in Reno. The ladies there examined her back, and can tell how badly she was beaten."

The Short Route Open.

J. M. Graham, the engineer of the Central Pacific, was in town yesterday. He says the trains will probably run by way of Benicia next Monday. There are some long bridges gone, but the water is down, so that tracks have been laid around them. There will be no more trouble this summer.

SAVINGS BANK ASSETS.

The Sheriff's Sale of Notes and Stocks Realizes $5 363.

The Sheriff's sale of the notes of hand and the stocks among the assets of the Reno Savings Bank was concluded this morning. The notes brought fair prices, considering the risk of litigation. The mining stocks sold were mostly wild cats, and many of them were worthless because the assessments had not been paid. Twenty-five shares of Con. Virginia brought $45, nearly the market price. The total sum realized by the Sheriff's sale is $5,363.90. The following were the most important purchases:

Seven notes made by Stephen Conner, amounting to $1,300, were bought by S. A. Gibson for $650.

The claim against the estate of R. H. Crocker for $3,000 was bought by T.E.Haydon for $1,000,on account of a judgment in favor of John Lee, administrator. Mr. Haydon bought on the same account some other claims, his purchases amounting to$2,000.

Alvaro Evans invested in notes about $1,000.

PERSONAL.

D. A. Bender and wife are in Reno.

C. A. Merrill, of Lassen county, is in town.

Hank Smith has resigned the Superintendency of the Belcher.

H. L. Fish has been elected a director of the First National Bank.

Mrs. Thyes gave her husband a birthday party last evening. About 25 of the young folks gathered.

Miss Irene MaLott gave a party last evening, which was attended by about 25 of her young friends.

The name of Gov. Woods appears in the list of passengers passing Omaha yesterday, to arrive in Reno Friday evening, but that of Col. Moore does not.

The Bodie Free Press says J. C. McTarnahan is now engaged in making arrangements to open and work the old Dog Town or Mono diggings on a large scale.

The Judicial Mind Brooding Over the Lottery Question.

Says the Carson Index: "The constitutionality of the Lottery bill was yesterday argued in the Supreme Court. Attorney-General Murphy had instituted a proceeding to test the right of the Benevolent Association to conduct a lottery, and upon the argument attacked the validity of the law as enacted by the last Legislature. Messrs. Ellis of Carson and Whitman of Virginia appeared for the Association and upheld the force and validity of the statute. The case was taken under advisement and briefs are to be filed by counsel.

District Court Notes.

H. H. Hickman vs. Jaquish—Demurrer withdrawn, and defendant allowed 15 days to answer.

D. Circe vs. James Mayberry—Continued till to-day.

Ordered that a venire of seventy-five jurors be drawn returnable on Monday April 11, at 10 A. M.

Douglas vs. Wooten—Motion to set aside judgment and verdict argued and submitted.

Singer Sewing Machine Co. vs. Davidson—Up for argument.

A Correction.

Judge King says those lawyers who told the GAZETTE that "there are about forty cases under consideration, some of which were argued over a year ago," are very much mistaken. He states that there are not over ten cases undecided of those which have been argued and submitted, and that of those ten cases the most were submitted at the last term of Court.

JOTTINGS.

—A few drops of rain fell last night.

—Why should people look out? Who is coming?

—G. W. Mapes got in to-day with 48 head of beef cattle sold to parties in Virginia.

—O'Brien will hold an auction sale of plants on Virginia street to-morrow.

—The Antelope mill is running successfully. Chas. A. Williams of Reno, is Superintendent.

—Men are at work making 20,000 bricks in the brick yard near the Odd Fellows' cemetery.

—Do you need a spring suit? Of course you do. And the White House is the place to get it cheap.

—Three hundred and eighty-one emigrants, many of them direct from Europe, went west yesterday in nine cars.

—Manning & Berry want you to try their Thistle Dew Whiskey. They are making steady customers of everybody that ever tastes it.

—La Roche & Sooy, the photographers in Budden's old stand, advertise their ability to take pictures in a thoroughly artistic manner.

—The county officers express themselves as being highly pleased with the manner in which the county blanks are being furnished by the GAZETTE office.

—The V. & T. horses recently brought down from Virginia, to await the completion of the road to Hawthorne, are feeding on Higgins' ranch near town. There are about 50 of them in all.

—The new mill on the Peavine road was running yesterday afternoon and to-day. The Huntington crushers work to perfection. To-morrow morning the mill will start up for a run of three days.

—Samuel Brown is not considered to be in a dangerous condition. He did not send for lawyers to settle his business, as has been stated. The legal gentleman simply paid him a friendly call.

—The shade trees in front of Dr. Bergman's office are overrun with large wood-lice, of about the size and color of grains of wheat. The Dr. has noticed them in other seasons, but never remarked them so numerous as now.

Making a Move.

Chas. Knust settled in Washoe county away back in an early day, when the Truckee river ran the other way. He used to live near Verdi, where Merrill does now. He has always been noted for industry and honesty. His store is a favorite trading place with everybody. He is anxious to do business, and will keep the best store this summer that he ever has had, sells nearly everything one would want except clothing and watches. He is now moving into Burke's corner. He has an advertisemet in another column, which please read.

Carp for Sierra Valley.

There is a large number of carp in the water tank at the Tahoe stage stable, varying in size from four to eight inches in length, which the Truckee Republican says will be taken to Messrs. Rowland & Co., and to Mr. Webber, at Sierraville, as soon as they can be easily transported. They came from Mr. Davis of Sonoma and are to be placed in the streams in Sierra Valley.

Entirely Satisfactory.

Mr. Napthaly, a prominent lawyer of San Francisco, has been in town to-day, examining into the affairs of S. Peiser, on behalf of Toklas, Brown & Co. Mr. Napthaly told a GAZETTE reporter this afternoon that Mr. Peiser made a perfectly satisfactory showing, and that the business of the latter would go on without any interruption.

Population of Chinatown.

An intelligent Chinese merchant puts the population of Chinatown at about 200, of whom only seven are women. The women are all prostitutes,and he says they are not Chinese, but Tartars. He thinks the number of Chinamen here who smoke opium is not over twenty. He will not trust any Chinaman who uses the drug.

A SERMON ON THE DEVIL.

The Rev. Myron Adams Throwing Doubt on the Doctrine of a Personal Satan.

ROCHESTER, March 27.—The Rev. Myron Adams, of this city, was disfellowshipped by the Ontario Congregational Association on account of his heterodox teachings. He preached this evening, with "The Devil" for his subject. His text was, "Deliver us from evil," the closing petition of the Lord's Prayer. He said that much interest is developed in the rumor that the new version will give a different rendering to this petition, "Deliver us from the evil one" "As the translators agree that the word 'evil' is an adjective, they might, with authority and reason, have supplied after it the noun 'thing' or 'one.' They make the personality of the devil the chief question to be decided. I believe the great question to be decided is not as to the personality, but the character and purposes, of the devil. Many suppose that to Jesus in the solitude of the desert, there suddenly appeared, after forty days' fasting, a being in human or angelic shape, and then invited him to eat the stones, and finally flew away to various other places, taking Jesus with him. But if the account be taken literally there are certain points of it which might well stagger the most credulous. For instance, Satan takes Jesus to an exceedingly high mountain in order to show him all the kingdoms of the world. Where is there such a mountain? The truth is one can see such things on the dead level just as well as upon the highest mountain crag on earth."

Handling Doves to Cure Rheumatism.

From the Pittsburgh Chronicle.

Some years ago a coal miner named Braun was afflicted so badly with inflammatory rheumatism in his arms and hands that he was compelled to seek another way of earning a living. Somewhere he heard that handling doves would effect a cure, and he purchased a number of the birds. These he would take in his hands, stroke and play with daily, and the result was that the pair he thus manipulated invariably became swollen up, first in the legs and then in the body, precisely as though they had the rheumatism. Finally death would ensue. In proportion as the doves became swollen Mr. Braun's affliction decreased, and finally, after pursuing the treatment for some time, he was able to keep himself relieved from pain. He still raises doves for the sacrifice, and winter and summer alike he is able to pursue his business as a dairyman, which vocation he took up in lieu of coal digging some years ago.
